Introducing the Scotiabank Centre

What's in a name?

Company to pay just over $7 million for 10-year deal as title sponsor of the Halifax Metro Centre, which will be renamed

RUTH DAVENPORT

The Halifax Metro Centre is getting a new name — and with it, new seating, new bathrooms, new ice and new concession facilities.

Scotiabank has been revealed as the Metro Centre's new title sponsor, which means the facility will be known as the Scotiabank Centre once the deal is finalized this fall.

Although the bank, which was founded in Halifax 180 years ago, has sponsored other Canadian rinks, the Atlantic region senior vice-president said this deal is different.

"This is more about re-investing in the community itself in terms of something that's owned by the municipality and isn't dedicated to one particular event," said Craig Thompson.

The most significant "corporate partnership" in the Metro Centre's history will pay $650,000 per year with a three per cent escalator for a total payout of more than $7 million over 10 years.

"This partnership will allow us to build on the legacy shaped over 35 years," said Mayor Mike Savage. "Thanks to Scotiabank, we'll be able to update key areas of this facility and make your experience at Metro Centre even better than it is today."

Ferguson said Metro Centre users identified the seating, concession area and washrooms as areas most in need of upgrades.

"We're going to see a facelift for the Metro Centre," he said. "We're very, very excited about the improvements."

Ferguson said the three-year upgrade plan — which will cost roughly $5.7 million — will begin with the expansion of the concession area this fall. Replacing the seats with the "most modern, most comfortable" seats on the market will be done in phases starting next summer.

HRM issued a request for proposals last November. The financial contribution made up 60 per cent of the final score, but "community fit" and financial sustainability were also considered.

"Scotiabank hit it out of the park ... and came out top in every one of those categories," said Ferguson.

A new sign will go up on the Metro Centre this fall, but Thompson acknowledged it will take the public "a while" to get used to the new name.

"You'll see it on ticket stubs ... you'll see the signage," he said. "So we're confident that over a period of time, it'll be second nature to call it the Scotiabank Centre."

Flag person hurt in hit-and-run

Police are investigating after a traffic-control person was hit by a car, which fled the scene of the accident in a construction zone on St. Margaret's Bay Road.

Halifax RCMP say it happened about noon Wednesday, with the flag person hit near the road's 2,150 block. Police say the woman suffered non-life-threatening injuries when she was hit by a grey/silver Honda CRV.

"It came speeding through the zone and struck her from behind," said RCMP spokesman Cpl. Scott MacRae. METRO

February holiday set to be named

The Nova Scotia government will announce on Thursday the name of the province's new holiday in February.

Two cabinet ministers will make the announcement at Brookhouse Elementary School in Dartmouth. Students were invited to submit ideas for the name, as well as suggestions for cultural and historic events to be recognized each year for the next 12 years.

The first February holiday in 2015 will recognize human-rights pioneer Viola Desmond, a black woman who was jailed in 1946 for refusing to give up her seat in the whites-only section of a theatre in New Glasgow.

Beginning in 2015, the holiday will fall on the third Monday in February.

Border officers seized a "significant" amount of cocaine last month when nearly 50 kilograms were found concealed in suitcases at the Port of Halifax, the Canadian Border Services Agency (CBSA) announced Wednesday.

On May 2, border officers in Halifax were examining a container of commercial goods from Panama bound for Montreal when multiple "anomalies" were discovered in 10 suitcases using X-ray technology. Sealed plastic envelopes with 46 kilograms of cocaine were found within their back walls.

"Any amount is significant for a community; any doses that we keep away from the street or children is priceless for us," said Dominic Mallette, Charges are pending for four men from South America who were arrested in Montreal on May 15, said Sgt. Keith MacKinnon of the RCMP's serious and organized crime unit.

He said the purity level of the cocaine was very high, about 80 per cent, so it still had to be cut down considerably to about 25 per cent for sale.

"If you look at the quantity on the table and triple this, that is a true representation of the cocaine that would be available on the street," MacKinnon said.

He said that the border agents seized about 1.3 million dosage units (a tenth of a gram), which works out to three or four million doses of cocaine once it's cut down.

The votes are in and Park West School is remaining P-9.

Halifax Regional School Board members voted 6-4 on Wednesday night to keep the status quo for the school after hearing a presentation from the boundary review committee during its monthly meeting in Dartmouth.

The committee was originally recommending turning Park West into a P-6 school, with those students in Grades 7 through 9 going to Clayton Park Junior High School.

But after criticism from many parents toward the idea, the committee had a

Curtain finally falls on Regional Plan review

'Momentous occasion.'
Councillors approve final version of document

ruth.davenport@metronews.ca

After nearly three years of meetings, reports, public consultation and amendments, councillors have approved the Regional Plan five-year review.

Councillors voted 15-1 on the plan Wednesday morning, after a public hearing Tuesday evening forced the last council meeting before the summer break into a second day.

"Ladies and gentlemen, this is a momentous occasion," said Mayor Mike Savage as councillors and staff applauded after the final vote.

Councillors approved one minor revision to the plan before giving it the green light.

Coun. Jennifer Watts' revision to the Regional Plan regarding Musquodoboit Harbour's designation was approved Wednesday. JEFF HARPER/METRO FILE

Coun. Jennifer Watts tabled an amendment based on feedback from Musquodoboit Harbour residents who came to Tuesday's public hearing to reverse a planned demotion of the community from rural district to local growth area.

"It allows a bit of tempering down about the concern that council has heard," said Watts. "It positions them back into the category with the stability where they were previously."

The area residents who spoke at the meeting urged council to keep the rural-district designation and to consider bringing piped water to the area, in hopes of stimulating development.

What's next?

More than 50 designated growth centres identified in the Regional Plan will now undergo secondary planning processes, while implementation strategies will be launched or developed on issues such as active transportation and greenbelting.

But Coun. Wayne Mason said piped water could happen under either designation. The rural-district designation calls for larger-scale development that may not work in Musquodoboit Harbour.

"It's a concern for me that we're going to open the door to town-scale development," he said. "We're going to have to be very vigilant when we get to secondary planning to make sure that isn't something that expresses itself in ways that (the residents) are unhappy with."

Group marches in support of convicted Halifax lawyer

'His colleagues are out to discredit him.' Lyle Howe was found guilty of sexually assaulting a then-19-year-old woman in 2011

halifax@metronews.ca

A Halifax group claims the legal community railroaded one of their own because he was too good a lawyer.

Over 60 people rallied at the George Dixon Center on Wednesday to show support for Lyle Howe who was convicted of sexual assault on May 31 and who is now awaiting sentencing, set for July 30.

"His colleagues are out to discredit him," group spokesperson David Sparks told reporters during the rally.

"Justice Kennedy I think has it in for Lyle I think the justice system itself is out to get Lyle. I think this is the latest in a series of attempts to discredit him and to eventually force him out of the profession."

Sparks told the crowd Howe's office had been broken into at the behest of a fellow lawyer, and that charges against Howe in a separate matter had been dropped because of lack of evidence.

Chief Justice Joseph Kennedy presided over the sexual assault trial, which concluded after two days of jury deliberation. Howe testified he had consensual sex with a then 19-year-old woman in 2011.

However, the Crown argued the complainant could not give consent.

"He's a good lawyer," said Sparks. "He's good at what he does. I think it's jealousy. It's envy. I think people want him stopped."

The group marched to the Nova Scotia Law Courts to protest the outcome of the trial.

"It's to show Lyle that we stand behind him and that we support him," Sparks said.

Crown had no vendetta: Prosecutor

A Nova Scotia Public Prosecution Service spokeswoman responded on Wednesday to allegations the legal community has a vendetta against one of their own lawyers.

"When police lay a criminal charge, any charge against any individual the Crown attorney evaluates the evidence," Chris Hansen, director of communications, said. "If the evidence supports a realistic prospect of conviction and it is in the public interest to proceed than the Crown is obligated to proceed," she added.

Hansen explained if there is not enough evidence, or if there is no public interest, than the Crown cannot proceed.

"It was a jury who rendered a verdict," said Hansen.

Halifax police are asking the public to help find a missing Dartmouth teen.

A press release from police states that Tiffany Watson, 16, was last seen leaving her home on Marvin Street the evening of June 18.

She was reported missing on June 19.

Tiffany boarded a flight to Toronto early on June 19. She's currently believed to be in the Toronto area, but she hasn't been in touch with friends or family since leaving Halifax.

The release states that there's no evidence that Tiffany has met with foul play, but there are concerns for her safety.

Tiffany is described as white, five-foot-nine-inches tall, around 200 pounds with a medium build. She has black hair that's dyed blond on top, and pierced tongue and upper lip.

She has "just ride" tattooed on the back of her neck and "don't let your fears win" on her wrist.

'It's such a magnificent place'

Nature Trust. Campaign launched around Eastern Shore islands

HALEY RYAN

haley.ryan@metronews.ca

A cluster of more than 100 islands between Clam Harbour Beach and Mushaboom Harbour is a quiet, "coastal gem" unlike most of Nova Scotia's developed coastline, says Peter Green, and the Nature Trust is hoping to conserve it with a final funding push.

On Wednesday, the Nova Scotia Nature Trust launched a campaign calling on residents to help raise the last part of their $7 million goal for the proposed Bay of Islands Coastal Wilderness.

"(It's) a part of our coast that is supporting basically every type of habitat you would expect to find in Nova Scotia," said Green, campaign coordinator, about the proposed 46,000 acres. "Rocky beaches, sandy beaches ... wetlands, salt marsh, boreal forests there, bogs."

The Trust says the densely packed islands and 250 kilometres of shoreline are home to some of North America's only temperate rainforests, as well as 100 species of birds.

Green said the islands are "relatively undisturbed" because families only lived there until the 1940s.

"You get out to these islands and it's peaceful," Green said. "It's such a magnificent place it just blows my mind."

The Trust worked with private landowners as well as the government, which owns 4,000 acres of Crown land in the area, to ensure the space is preserved but open for the public to hike, fish or camp.

Locals are excited about the project because it could be a great tourism driver, Green said.

"This is going to put the Eastern Shore on the map and this is going to allow them to hopefully build an economy based on these islands."

The Trust has raised $4 million so far, and is asking the public to raise $1.5 million since each dollar will be matched for a total of $3 million.

"This is our opportunity to make something beautiful, to protect this coastal gem," Green said. "Set it aside for future generations ... to be able to understand and appreciate what our coasts really are."

Farming Atlantic salmon

Land-based aquaculture model not commercially viable, study finds

An independent report commissioned by the Nova Scotia government is casting doubt on the commercial viability of farming Atlantic salmon in land-based, closed-containment facilities.

The report by Gardner Pinfold Consulting concludes that land-based salmon farming operations — while technically feasible — would have to be large-scale to overcome the inherent engineering, building, labour and energy costs.

The report adds that the financial feasibility would have to be confirmed by observing the actual performance of a commercial-scale operation.

It also notes that land-based operations would not be restricted to coastal communities, given the existence of efficient water recirculation technology.

At least 21 dead after Nigerian mall bombing

17 wounded. Extremists attack shopping centre in capital Abuja

An explosion blamed on Islamic extremists rocked a shopping mall in Nigeria's capital, Abuja, and police said 21 people were killed.

The blast came as Nigerians were preparing to watch their country's Super Eagles play Argentina at the World Cup in Brazil. Many shops at the mall have TV screens but it was unclear if the explosion was timed to coincide with the match, which started an hour later.

Witnesses said body parts were scattered around the exit to Emab Plaza, in Abuja's upscale Wuse 2 suburb. One witness said he thought the bomb was dropped at the entrance to the mall by a motorcyclist. All spoke on condition of anonymity for fear of reprisals.

Soldiers shot and killed one suspect as he tried to escape on a power bike and police detained a second suspect, government spokesman Mike Omeri said in a statement.

Billows of black smoke could be seen from a kilometre away, and police said 17 vehicles were burnt out in the blast.

"I heard the explosion and (felt) the building shaking," said Shuaibu Baba, who had a narrow escape. He said he rushed downstairs to find that the driver who had dropped him a few minutes earlier was dead. "I asked the driver to come with me, and he said 'No,' he would wait for me in the car."

Police Supt. Frank Mba said 17 people were wounded and 21 bodies were recovered.

N.S. Researchers may have found key to fighting antibiotic resistance

A soil sample from Nova Scotia has yielded a compound that could help fight antibiotic resistance.

Researchers from McMaster University in Hamilton have discovered a fungus that produces a chemical that overrides the antibiotic resistance powers the dangerous NDM-1 gene gives to bacteria.

They liken the compound to an adjuvant, a chemical that enhances the power of vaccines.

Biochemistry professor Gerry Wright and his team have been looking in soil samples from around the country for bacteria and fungi that produce chemicals that might inhibit antibiotic resistance.

This early finding is published in this week's issue of the scientific journal Nature.

The McMaster team found the compound worked to resensitize resistant bacteria that contain the NDM-1 gene, and even cleared a resistant infection from a mouse.

Wright says the compound, called aspergillomarasmime

Aspergillus versicolor, a fungus found in a soil sample from Nova Scotia, that may fight antibiotic resistance. MCMaster UNIVERSITY/THE CANADIAN PRESS

A or AMA, interferes with the NDM-1 gene's source of zinc. The gene needs zinc to work.

Much testing remains to be done to see if this compound could be used safely and successfully in people. But the hope is it could be taken in combination with antibiotics to help prolong the lifespans of these critical infection-fighting drugs. THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Ottawa hockey program iced after sex assault probe

Men's varsity team.

School's president calls conduct 'unacceptable', 2014-15 season suspended and coach fired after investigation

LUCY SCHOLEY
Metro in Ottawa

The University of Ottawa has suspended its men's varsity hockey program for the entire 2014-15 season and fired the team's coach following an internal investigation into allegations of a gang sex assault by players on a tournament trip to Thunder Bay.

University president Allan Rock would not divulge the details of the internal report during Wednesday's announcement, as there is a separate police investigation in the works.

"We know enough to say what happened there was unacceptable," he said.

However, the university did release a report of recommendations to improve school varsity sports, including updating the coaching handbook and conducting an annual review of all guidelines on athlete behaviour.

incident, but he had tried to discipline those students on his own.

Thunder Bay police say they've completed their investigation into the Jan. 30-to-Feb. 2 incident, are reviewing the case with the Crown and expect to make an announcement "of some sort in coming weeks."

Anne-Marie Roy, president of the Student Federation of the University of Ottawa, said she's happy the university is changing its policies, but added that more needs to be done to address rape culture on university campuses.

"I don't think that what's happening with the hockey team at the University of Ottawa is an isolated case," she said, adding that the vast majority of sexual assaults are unreported. "This is something that is experienced on other campuses, as well."

Meilleur. Ontario AG calls out MacKay over recent remarks about women

Add Ontario's attorney general to the list of people who have a bone to pick with Justice Minister Peter MacKay.

Madeleine Meilleur calls MacKay's recent remarks about female judges "very unfortunate" in this day and age — particularly when Ontario has elected its first female premier.

The Toronto Star reported that MacKay attributed the dearth of women on the bench to a lack of applications, reportedly linking that to a fear among women that they might be appointed to a circuit court, which entails more travel.

MacKay found himself in hot water again Tuesday over Mother's Day and

Father's Day emails to staff — one saluting mothers for holding down two full-time jobs at home and at work, the other lauding dads for raising "the next generation of leaders."

Prime Minister Stephen Harper defended his justice minister Wednesday, saying MacKay's comments have been unfairly characterized as sexist.

Meilleur says there are very competent women in Ontario and Canada who are able to be judges and province's judicial bench is proof of it.

She noted that the chief justice of the Ontario Court of Justice is a woman.

Border agency cuts data retention to 15 years from 75

The federal border agency is bowing to privacy concerns by agreeing to slash the amount of time it will keep data on the cross-border movements of Canadians as part of a new security plan.

The Canada Border Services Agency says it plans to retain personal details gleaned from the Canada-U.S. initiative for 15 years — not 75 — following pressure from the federal privacy watchdog.

The tracking system involves exchanging entry information collected from people at the land border — so that data on entry to one country would serve as a record of exit from the other. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kim Jong-un movie an 'act of war': N.K.

Supreme wet blanket. Government says buddy comedy The Interview is 'provocative insanity'

North Korea is warning that the release of a new American comedy about a plot to assassinate leader Kim Jong-un would be an "act of war."

If the U.S. government doesn't block the movie's release, it will face "stern" and "merciless" retaliation, an unidentified spokesman for North Korea's Foreign Ministry said in state media Wednesday.

He didn't mention the movie by name but was clearly referring to The Interview, which stars Seth Rogen and James Franco as a producer and talk-show host who land an exclusive interview with the North Korean dictator and are asked by the CIA to assassinate him.

The "reckless U.S. provocative insanity" of mobilizing a "gangster filmmaker" to challenge the North's leadership is triggering "a gust of hatred and rage" among North Korean people and soldiers, the spokesman said, in typically heated propaganda language.

The film's release would be considered an "act of war that we will never tolerate," he said.

With no independent press of its own, North Korea often holds foreign governments responsible for the content of their media. Pyongyang regularly warns Seoul to prevent its conservative press from mocking or criticizing its leadership, something banned within authoritarian North Korea.

Man killed after Facebook chat: Brazilian police

Brazilian police say a Facebook conversation made a man so jealous that he killed and dismembered a friend of his wife.

The Rio de Janeiro police department said in a statement emailed on Wednesday that Anderson Gomes Aleixo grew jealous when he found out that his wife and a childhood friend were chatting on Facebook.

The statement says Aleixo confessed that he forced his wife to invite her friend to their house on June 8, then killed Francisco de Assis Coelho Neves with a knife and dismembered the body. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cops bust $50M fake lotto scam

Greek authorities say they have broken a massive lottery scam targeting Germans that tricked about 360,000 people into paying to take part in non-existent draws.

A police statement Wednesday said two Greek men have been arrested on suspicion of running the ring, whose illicit earnings allegedly exceeded 36 million euros ($50 million) in nearly four years.

The ring allegedly used illegally procured lists of German betting company clients, whom they then phoned, offering cash prizes or free holidays in return for a monthly subscription. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Britain's PM, Murdoch still under fire

Not over. The end of the tabloid phone-hacking trial isn't the end of the matter for PM Cameron and media titan Murdoch

Britain's epic tabloid phone-hacking trial ended Wednesday with a hung jury on two final counts — and a judge's rebuke for Prime Minister David Cameron, whose televised comments about the case while it was still underway almost scuttled proceedings.

Cameron is already under pressure for his ties to the only person convicted at the trial, former News of the World tabloid editor — and ex-Downing Street communications director — Andy Coulson.

Coulson's conviction for conspiracy to hack phones was also unwelcome news for Rupert Murdoch, his former employer, and raises the possibility of a corporate prosecution for Murdoch's media behemoth, News Corp.

Bazinga and Tridel. Deal brings a new social network for the condo set

A Vancouver company is hoping condo-dwelling Canadians have room for one more social network in their lives.

On Wednesday, the company Bazinga announced it has inked a deal with Canada's largest condo developer, Tridel, to integrate its social media platform into the real estate company's new and existing projects.

Bazinga is a little like Facebook — allowing residents to chat with each other and building staff — and also lets users book amenities, access important documents and receive news about their community.

"Think of it as your building's (Facebook) wall but it's very interactive," says Bazinga founder Joseph Nakhla.

"You can post things, there's alerts — like, 'Keep an eye open on this issue,' 'Did anyone lose a bag?,' 'Is anyone looking for a car pool partner?' — (and) information on nearby businesses. It's very specific conversations that are occurring on the platform. What differentiates it from other platforms is there's heavy utility in there."

"And it's private. It's secure. It has only the people who are owners or tenants. There's no such thing as an anonymous presence on the platform."

Barnes & Noble turns page on Nook e-reader

Barnes & Noble hopes to survive by splitting in two.

The largest U.S. brick-and-mortar bookseller, beset by tough competition from online retailers like Amazon and discount stores like Walmart, said Wednesday that it plans to split off its Nook e-reader division as it looks to boost shareholder value.

Investors applauded the news, sending shares up more than 6 per cent in midday trading Wednesday.

Barnes & Noble spent years investing heavily in its Nook e-book reader and e-book library, but they struggled to be profitable.

THE NEAR-DEATH THAT WASN'T

I've never had great life skills, but I've come to realize I don't have great death skills, either.

I was in an accident recently where I could have been killed — this happens to me every three years or so — and the impact it had was, well, absolutely nothing.

Shouldn't I be inspired or something?

In my defence, it wasn't much of a near-death experience: I fell off my bicycle at a busy intersection.

To the people who saw the accident, it likely looked less like a matter of life and death and more like a schmuck faceplanting comically into the pavement. But, if it had a laugh track for them, it was Adagio for Strings playing in my head, as I tumbled in slow motion toward the pavement and thought, "I might get run over before I have a chance to turn around."

Fortunately the driver behind me was not on his phone, so

HE SAYS
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca

my corpse did not end up on Instagram with a filter giving my skin a healthier tone than it ever had in life.

Which leads to my first lacking death skill: Isn't my life supposed to flash before my eyes? The message from most inspirational speakers is that "one day your life will flash before your eyes, so you'd best make it a good show" or some such. But when I fell, all I saw was the streetcar track I wiped out on, the pavement, and the truck grill.

I'd been promised a Vine of my life's greatest moments, and instead it would have been like I was browsing stock photography. If the car had hit me the last images before death would have been a close-up of an interracial handshake and a woman way too happy about her salad. Not that I'm ungrateful. I totally prefer being alive.

In fact, immediately afterward I decided to celebrate. I was alive! Time to live! This led to my second death deficiency: My big response to near-death was to get a fancy coffee with whipped cream on it.

I'm not sure which is sadder: that this is my idea of living it up, or that my response to avoiding death was to order a drink that would push me closer to it.

Finally, and most damning, the accident did nothing to motivate me into a better life. It freaked me out for a few hours, because we're just bags of meat that should have "FRAGILE" stamped on our bodies. But that's it.

I've done nothing to improve myself, I've felt no more in touch with my life and I haven't started a charity like Cyclists Against Faceplanting in Traffic.

When I faced my own mortality in the past — at a funeral or during an accident — my immediate response was a figurative roller-coaster ride: euphoria, disappointment, levelling off.

Now I feel fragile for a couple of hours, have an expensive coffee and write a column. I think I'm OK with that.

But change my life in a big, noticeable way?

Well, that'll be the day that I die.

Turning financial devastation into new theatrical inspiration

Iceland. Playwright Nicolas Billon turned the 2008 mortgage crisis into a series of three monologues

As a Canadian, Montreal native Nicolas Billon didn't have a direct connection to the mortgage crisis of 2008.

However, having lived through the bursting of the dot-com bubble, he joined the rest of us in wondering how this managed to happen again.

"In a way, the mortgage crisis was the same thing dressed up differently," said Billon.

Covering a lot of ground through a collection of historical references, Billon's play Iceland, which continues to run through the final weekend of this year's Magnetic North Theatre Festival in Halifax, takes this global financial crisis beyond the banks it busted and into the lives of three characters.

Even after he did a substantial amount of research into the inner workings of this economic downturn, Billon admits he "only sort of understands" its complexity. He successfully turns the dilemma into three monologues that, according to Billon, are for more relatable than the numbers.

"I think it's very easy to dismiss the mortgage crisis as something that happened in the financial world," he said. "However, everything is so interconnected these days that the people in the

A hop, skip and some hard work later, this work "made its way" to the famed Stratford Festival. Recognized as "the start of a major career" by the local media, Billon is excited to continue and bring Iceland to our Halifax audiences.

Not only is it a chance to participate in the Magnetic North festival, which he is truly excited to be a part of, but it's also an excuse to visit the east coast in the summer.

"In high school I was an actor, a terrible actor, but theatre was already in my sphere. I had a community theatre that I ran with a friend in Montreal."

In a "crazy story of sheer luck," Billon accepted his limitations as an actor early in his theatre career and took on the role of writer.

Can you feel the love tonight? Elton John can't

Elton John was flying the unfriendly skies recently, reportedly getting into a vicious shouting match with husband David Furnish in front of friends aboard a private jet bound for the recent Bonnaroo music festival in Tennessee, according to Radar Online. "Elton and David flew a few friends with them to the gig, and they all know Elton gets pissed when something isn't completely on his schedule. One of the cars carrying his friends was late. He got super-annoyed and even more so when David told him he was basically acting like a brat," a source says. "David calling out Elton sent him into a huge rage. He even went so far as to threaten to pull support for the (Elton John AIDS) Foundation, knowing it's one of the things that means the most to David." Things were very tense for a moment until John excused himself. "Elton went in a separate part of the plane for a while and cooled off. When he came back he played it off by making a joke about it," the source says. "It's a common occurrence between Elton and David, but definitely went further than their friends have seen before."

Gary Oldman says sorry for just a little bit of his bigotry

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News

Gary Oldman has had a lot of time to do some soul-searching since Tuesday, when it became known that he'd said some terrible things about Jews, black people, and gay people. He has realized that he is deeply sorry for some of it.

Among Oldman's many colourful remarks to Playboy, he opined that Mel Gibson only got in trouble for spouting anti-Semitic epithets because he's "in a town run by Jews." Whatever else is going on in Oldman's withered old brain, he does at least understand that the ol' Nazi refrain "Jews control the media" is not a road you want to go down, and he said as much in an open letter to the Anti-Defamation League.

"I am deeply remorseful that comments I recently made in the Playboy interview were offensive to many Jewish people," Oldman wrote, according to Page Six. "Upon reading my comments in print — I see how insensitive they may be, and how they may indeed contribute to the furtherance of a false stereotype."

They do indeed contribute to that! However, speaking as a Jewish person: Come on, man. Don't single us out. If you're going to apologize to the people you offended, apologize to all of them.

"By the way, you were listed on Lindsay Lohan's sex list, that you had sex with her. I didn't know this," Stern offered, to which Levine promptly shot back, "That's not true. Trending on her own terms. Janelle frees her 'soul' through her look and lyrics on the run-up to her summer tour

RICHARD PECKETT
Metro World News

"Embrace the things that make you feel unique, even if it makes others feel uncomfortable," says singer-songwriter Janelle Monáe. That maxim is something Monáe has perfected. The Kansas-born artist, like her time-travelling robot alter-ego Cindi Mayweather, isn't one to conform to outdated stereotypes. She's a feminist, womanist, and apparently an android. It's an attitude that the 28-year-old, who is touring this summer, takes into her albums The ArchAndroid and The Electric Lady, which deal with social and racial restriction. Even her artistry can't be straightjacketed into sound or style conventions: the Little Richard-esque quiff and her monochrome era-transcending tuxedo ensembles are as redefining as her sci-fi R&B soul, which seamlessly straddles a multitude of musical genres.

Oh yeah, absolutely.

Have you been back since?

I've been back since. I love watching people dance and the album is centred around women and I want to understand every type of woman: strippers, college students, the artist, the ghetto woman, the Queen. I definitely went to the strip club to do research and to understand their story.

Mixing wood tones

Basics of interior design. Wood, like any other interior decorating element, has a shelf life

DESIGN CENTRE

One of the hardest renovating or decorating decisions is choosing wood tones for items like flooring and kitchen cabinets. Not only do they cost a lot of money, but must stand up to at least a decade of changing trends.

The secret to making the right choice is to consider how you live and what other wood elements you have gravitated to over time.

For instance, do you have a large collection of antique pine furnishings or do most of your picture frames have a certain stain colour that you enjoy? This might be the start to making a large purchase of a longer-lasting wood product for your home.

A room looks best when decorated with no more than three wood tones: Dark wood floors, medium wood furniture and pale wood wall create the perfect example.

Here are some guidelines to help you choose:

Contemporary or traditional

The lighter the wood tones, the more casual or contemporary the space will feel. The darker the tones, the more traditional or masculine the space will appear.

The magic of a trifecta

Do not incorporate more than three different woods in any given space — for instance, chestnut coloured floors, cherrywood cabinets and a pine table. More than three will look over-collected and junky.

Give inherited pieces a new finish

If you inherit a fine piece of furniture, consider having it re-finished in a more up-to-date stain that helps blend it into your established decor.

Follow big trends in small accessories

Influenced by a trend tone of wood? Use it in small furnishings like side tables or in room accessories like storage boxes or lamps.

Fell mighty 'builder' oak with paint strokes

Too much "builder" oak wood around your home? Consider painting baseboards, interior doors, mantels and stair handrails to match an existing paint colour (usually white).

Cherry-pick your colours

You can often look to your home's architecture for inspiration in wood tones. For instance, an Arts and Crafts space can feature cherry wood. Pale light tones survive well in a boxy, modern space and deep mahogany looks best in a space with historical charm.

Give matchy-matchy a pass

Matching all wood elements can look too predictable. Varying the wood's stain colour by using lighter or darker tones helps add visual variety without overwhelming the room with too many types of wood.

What decade does your wood say you are?

Every decade has its trend wood: 1970s, knotty pine; 1980s, golden oak; 1990s, blonde maple; 2000, espresso/ebony; 2010, driftwood oak.

Refresh outdated wood

And lastly, we all know men act like wood is gold, and it should never be painted. If the wood in your home is outdated, then it's time for a change. Re-stain or paint it to give it another five to 10 years of life.

The ABCs of Canadian film

The ABCs of Canadian film is your crash course in the essential Canadian cinema. From the blood-soaked horror movies of the tax shelter years to the masterworks of Atom Egoyan and David Cronenberg, it's everything you need to know about Canada at the movies, in 26 letters.

Did Canada fund a "porn flick?"

If you paid taxes in the '90s, you helped fund what some people swear is a porn flick.

I'm talking about Bubbles Galore, a 1996 film made with more than $100,000 in government grant money and starring real-life adult actress Nina Hartley. Canadian politicians and right-wing newspaper columnists denounced it as a "lesbo porn flick," "a monstrosity," and "scum."

The filmmaker called it an expression "of the right of women to take control of their image."

So what was it? A clever parody of the adult film industry or a soft-core porn masquerading as satire? Hear what adult film actress Nina Hartley told Metro about Bubbles Galore at metronews.ca/abcsofcanadianfilm.

The first Canadian horror movie

From Black Christmas to Resident Evil, the Great White North has been a prolific producer of some of the best films the genre has to offer. But that's just the tip of the icepick.

The first-ever Canadian horror movie was 1961's The Mask. It was a trippy drive-in film about a man who puts on a grotesque haunted mask and is enveloped in an acid-trip netherworld of floating skulls and dancing demons. The possessed dream scenes, shot in 3D, are still pretty damn creepy today.

Get out your 3D glasses and watch The Mask in its entirety, and see our list of the top 10 Canadian horror movies ever made online.

Canadian film can be exciting, influential and groundbreaking — but if you're like most Canucks, you wouldn't even know it. That's where The ABCs of Canadian film comes in. This website offers everything you need to know about Canada at the movies — in 26 letters — from "eh" to zed. So this Canada Day weekend, love your country by turning on your DVD player, breaking out the maple syrup and watching these five landmark moments and movies in Canadian cinema history. 5 reel moments in Canadian film history

The little sci-fi movie that could

What do a handful of unknown actors, a single Toronto soundstage and $600,000 get you? How about worldwide fame and undisputed status as a sci-fi cult classic.

At least that's what happened with Cube, the 1997 sci-fi film about seven strangers who find themselves stuck in a mysterious maze of interconnecting, fiendishly booby-trapped cubic rooms.

One of its more memorable scenes, in which a man is sliced into hundreds of flesh cubes by a fine metal mesh, even has the dubious honour of being homaged (some might say ripped off) in the first Resident Evil film. Watch the scene and judge for yourself on the site.

Canuxploitation

Nifty word, isn't it? Back in the 1970s, the government created something called the 100 per cent Capital Cost Allowance (CCA), suddenly making it financially attractive to produce films here. These so-called tax-shelter years produced some of the weirdest, bloodiest and most influential Canadian films ever made. Black Christmas (pictured), My Bloody Valentine, and David Cronenberg's The Brood are just a few of the more popular Canuxploitation flicks to emerge from the tax shelter.

Discovering Xavier Dolan

If you don't know the name already, you probably will soon. Xavier Dolan is Canada's hottest cultural commodity since the Trailer Park Boys. At just 25 years old, the young Montreal director is quickly becoming the new golden boy of Canadian cinema, and he's only made five movies.

With a recent Jury Prize win at Cannes, Dolan is poised to break out of the festival scene and start making international box office hits.

Get to know this up-and-coming Canadian superstar before he makes his first blockbuster on the site, where we explore his first-ever feature-length film, I Killed My Mother.

Value Village has everything you need for Canada Day celebrations, for less

Looking to show some patriotism this Canada Day?

You don't have to spend a fortune on brand new clothes or home accessories in red and white. Your local Value Village has all the quality used clothing and household items you need to do justice to the birth of our nation — or at least celebrate it in style.

The aisles at Value Village are packed with potential. Every Value Village stocks an ever-changing selection of about 100,000 items on the sales floor, and since 5,000 to 10,000 new items are added to the sale floor each day, there's always something fresh, whether you're looking for a one-time Canada Day outfit (red and white all over, of course), or something to treasure forever.

"At Value Village you can find clothing and accessories from many eras and designers in one place," explains Tony Shumpert, Vice President of recycling operations for Value Village. "Style is all about creativity and individualism, and keeping fashion interesting requires your imagination.

"In a traditional retail environment it's next to impossible to find such a diverse selection. We have so much to offer that it's hard not to find something good," says Shumpert. "It's a great way to discover that unique piece that nobody else has — we have some real gems."

You'll find that uniqueness factor in the housewares section just as much as you will in the clothing aisles.

Impress your friends when they come over for a Canada Day barbecue: make the cake batter in a mint green mixing bowl. Adorn your table with wheat bouquets in a vintage milk bottle. Carve your steaks with antler-handled steak knives. Serve your grilled meal on a fun mix-and-match array of plates.

"You never know what you'll find here," says Shumpert. "There's always something fun and interesting."

IT STARTED WITH PURPLE HEART THRIFT STORE IN 1954

Value Village has its roots as the Purple Heart Thrift Store, which opened its doors in 1954 in an old theatre in San Francisco's Mission District.

Much as the company has grown and evolved, but its values have remained constant.

"For 60 years our purpose has been to do well while doing good at the same time," explains Tony Shumpert, vice president of recycling operations for Value Village.

In that first store, Value Village founder William Ellison partnered with charitable organization the Military Order of the Purple Heart.

Within 12 years the company had expanded to stores across California, Oregon and Washington, and in 1971 the company moved its headquarters to Seattle.

In 1980, the company opened its first international store: Value Village on Hastings Street in Vancouver, partnered with the Developmental Disabilities Association.

The company quickly multiplied its Canadian locations, and today there are 125 locations across Canada, with more opening soon.

If you aren't using them...

In Canada, green is our way of life — not just because of our vast forests and grasslands, but because of the way individual Canadians have embraced the three Rs: reduce, reuse, recycle.

Be a part of the green movement this Canada Day: shop second-hand and donate your reusable clothes and household items at organizations like Value Village.

On average, each North American throws away more than 68 pounds of clothing and textiles each year. Buck the trend.

Nearly 100 per cent of used clothing is reusable or recyclable, so instead of tossing the items you don't need anymore into the trash, donate them.

Value Village is one of the largest recyclers of used clothing in the world — keeping more than 1.8 million pounds (that's 600 mid-size cars!) of quality goods from landfills each day by selling reusable items in-store and responsibly recycling items unsuitable for resale.

Last year, 329 million tops, 59 million pairs of shoes, 114 million pairs of pants and 28 million coats were repurposed.

Donating your reusable clothing and household items at Value Village is a win-win. Your items will be diverted from a landfill, preserving the environment and helping reduce greenhouse gas in the atmosphere that would result from its decomposition.

Stuffed Duck Breast with Marjoram Jus.

This dish offers a touch of sophistication that is sure to wow guests and takes just three steps

"If the stuffing isn't cooked before filling the duck breasts, this dish will require more cooking time, which will overcook the duck and toughen the meat," writes Jean-Paul Grappe in his book Basil, Thyme, Coriander and Other Herbs.

This dish can be served over fingerling potatoes, green beans and spinach.

1. Grind the first six ingredients for the stuffing twice with a medium disc in a meat grinder. Add the marjoram, salt, and pepper, and mix well. Make 4 small rolls the same length as the duck breasts,

- 1 egg white
- 1 tbsp potato starch or corn starch
- 1 1/4 cups (90 g) marjoram, chopped finely

A little herb goes a long way

In his book Basil, Thyme, Coriander and Other Herbs, Jean-Paul Grappe shines the spotlight on herbs by demonstrating how much they can enhance the flavour of a dish.

Included in the book are 20 herbs and their histories, therapeutic values and use in the kitchen. Among the specific herbs included are: dill, basil, chives, cilantro, bay, mint, mustard, sorrel, rosemary, sage, thyme and more. Recipes, meanwhile, include Vegetable and Chive Sauté, Pork Chops with Hyssop, Atlantic Tuna with Mint Butter, and more. METRO wrap them in plastic wrap and tie the ends. Cook them in 212 F (100 C) water, for 5 to 6 minutes. Cool in cold water. Set aside.

2. Butterfly the duck breasts and season with salt and pepper. Fill with the cooked rolls of stuffing. Close and season with salt and pepper. Set aside. In a sauté pan, heat the duck fat and sear the breasts skin side down for 2 to 3 minutes.

This recipe serves four. PIERRE BEAUCHEMIN

Do the same for the other side. Put a lid on slightly askew and cook on medium heat for 7 to 8 minutes. Remove the excess cooking fat from the pan and flambé the breasts in Armagnac. Remove them from the pan and keep warm. In the same pan, add the thickened duck stock and finish the sauce with butter. Adjust the seasoning.

3. Pour the sauce onto the bottom of the plate. Slice the breasts and serve on top of the sauce. EXCERPTED FROM BASIL, THYME, CORIANDER AND OTHER HERBS BY JEAN-PAUL GRAPPE (FITZHENRY & WHITESIDE, 2014)

Dartmouth native named new Penguins bench boss

NHL. Mike Johnston joins fellow bluenoser Sidney Crosby in Pittsburgh

KRISTEN LIPSCOMBE

The black and gold has another Nova Scotian joining the fold.

The Pittsburgh Penguins named Mike Johnston of Dartmouth their new head coach Wednesday.

Johnston joins fellow bluenoser Sidney Crosby on the Penguins, although he'll be sporting his new colours on the bench.

"My dad at 80 still plays hockey regularly at Cole Harbour Place," Johnston told media of a still strong connection to his home province.

Johnston, 57, spent the past six seasons as head coach and general manager of the Western Hockey League's Portland Winterhawks, leading them to the finals three times. He was suspended when Portland won the 2014 Ed Chynoweth Cup.

He replaces Dan Bylsma, who was fired earlier this month after the New York Rangers knocked the Pens out in the second round of the 2014 NHL playoffs.

Johnston also served as assistant coach of the Vancouver Canucks and associate of the Los Angeles Kings between 1999 and 2006, and spent several years in various roles with Team Canada, winning gold twice at both

"My strengths have been building a program, building a template, building an identity, so that the identity is really clearly understood by the staff, by the players, and we're in sync," Johnston told reporters at a press conference in Pittsburgh.

"The core group is exactly where I want it," he said of the star power on his lineup, such as Crosby and Evgeni Malkin.

"Whether you're Sid or you're Malkin, I think any player in that dressing room is going to want to have the right template to make them successful," Johnston said.

Johnston said building that new team template will start "right away," with player meetings and upcoming development, rookie and training camps.

Penguins general manager Jim Rutherford said Johnston

"brings great experience to this team."

"Some of the things I was looking for in a head coach was a guy that is capable of making adjustments during games, and that's probably his strongest suit," he told reporters.

Rutherford and the team have also brought on longtime NHL coach Rich Tocchet as assistant coach.

McDonald anxious as NHL draft approaches

Halifax's Mason McDonald is having a tough time getting to sleep this week knowing a childhood dream will come true in a matter of days.

The Charlottetown Islanders goaltender is expected to be one of the first netminders selected during the NHL Draft, which begins Friday and ends Saturday in Philadelphia.

"I think about it every night before I go to sleep," McDonald said. "It's getting harder (to get to sleep) every night leading up to it."

McDonald leaves Friday morning with his family for the City of Brotherly Love. McDonald's calm demeanour is something that helps him prepare for the uncertainty of the draft.

"You never know," he said. "It's all about what the teams need and what they want."

It could mean he goes Friday night in the first round.

"If it's me then great. If it's not then I'll just go to sleep at night and just think about getting picked the next day," he said.

McDonald went through the combine a month ago in Toronto. It included physical testing and interviews with general managers and team personnel. McDonald said it was a great experience to meet with the team officials, including new Philadelphia general manager Ron Hextall, a former Flyers goalie.

McDonald was a second-round pick of the Bathurst Titan in the 2013 Quebec Major Junior Hockey League draft. He played 26 games in his rookie season and 13 more in 2013-14 backing up Jacob Brennan.

"I just kept positive," McDonald said. "I knew if I got some playing time I would get seen."

The Islanders acquired him in December after dealing Antoine Bibeau to Val-d'Or.

"It kind of changed everything," McDonald said. "I started playing a lot more (and) I started playing better when I got to Charlottetown."

World Cup. In final match of group play, global superstar takes his game to next level

Argentina beat Nigeria 3-2 in their last World Cup group match on Wednesday, with Lionel Messi and Ahmed Musa scoring two goals each before Marcos Rojo kneed in the winner.

Argentina won Group F while Nigeria also advanced despite the loss, becoming the first African team in the round of 16 in Brazil.

Messi had his best match of the World Cup so far, scoring twice in the first half to boost his tournament total to four goals, and repeatedly cutting up Nigeria's defence with dazling runs and clever passes.

"We played against a team that wanted to play," Messi said. "I think we saw a good Argentina. We need to continue on this path."

The Argentina captain needed less than three minutes to finish Nigeria goalkeeper Vincent Enyeama's clean sheet in Brazil, slamming in the rebound after Angel Di Maria's shot bounced off the post. Nigeria replied within a minute as Musa cut in from the left and beat Sergio Romero with a curling shot toward the far post.

Nearing halftime Messi tested Enyeama with a 25-metre free kick that the 'keeper struggled to push to a corner. Having found his aim, Messi was ice cold when Nigeria gave up another free kick just moments later. This time Enyeama was Right on time. Swiss find holes in Honduras' game with Shaqiri's hat trick

Xherdan Shaqiri scored all three goals Wednesday to put Switzerland into the second round of the World Cup with a 3-0 victory over Honduras.

The Swiss will next face Lionel Messi and Argentina on Tuesday in Sao Paulo.

Shaqiri scored his first goal in the sixth minute, dribbling into a crowd of defenders and curling a shot into the net off the underside of the crossbar. In the 31st, he collected a pass from Josip Drmic after a defensive error and easily beat Honduras goalkeeper Noel Valladares.

Shaqiri completed his hat trick in the 71st. Drmic did well to beat Honduras defender Victor Bernardez on the left and pass to a charging Shaqiri, who one-timed his shot past a diving Valladares.

Alleged bite. Disciplinary case opened for Suarez

Luis Suarez could become just as awkward for football's international organizers to handle as he has been for rival teams at the World Cup.

France drew 0-0 with 10-man Ecuador to advance to the second round of the World Cup on Wednesday, while the South Americans will be going home from the tournament.

Ecuador was down to 10 men at Rio's Maracana stadium after Antonio Valencia was shown a straight red card in the 50th minute for digging his studs into the leg of French defender Lucas Digne.

But Ecuador may feel upset that France centre half Mamadou Sakho was not shown a red card in the eighth minute when he appeared to elbow Oswaldo Minda in the face during a France corner. Then, in a late incident off the ball, France forward Olivier Giroud jabbed his elbow in to Gabriel Achilier, who was standing behind him.

France coach Didier Deschamps made six changes to his starting lineup, knowing his side was all but assured of advancing.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

The world is a wonderful place and what happens over the next 48 hours will remind you how much is possible if you have a positive outlook on life.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You will get what you deserve today and tomorrow. If you have worked hard you will gain in ways that delight you, but if you have stayed in your comfort zone rewards will be limited.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

In a matter of days you will be doing things you hardly dared dream of just a short time ago. So much is possible for you now. All it needs is for you to be confident and be ready to act fast when the time is right.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

If there are any ill feelings between you and a loved one, you must sort it out over the next 24 hours. Yes, they can at times be a pain. But bearing grudges is always self-defeating.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You will get the proverbial offer you cannot refuse today but if you are smart that is exactly what you will do. The planets indicate that there will be better offers coming your way before the end of the week — and lots of them.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Tomorrow's new moon will bring with it an opportunity to move up in the world, but it won't come for free. Is it a trade worth making? The fact is you cannot afford not to.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Some people complain that they never get the breaks but you know that's rarely true. What you get out of life has to be earned and over the next three days you'll find the more you give the more you get.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Use your energy wisely today because if you waste it on trivial things you could pay for it tomorrow. Don't listen to what others say is important, listen only to your inner voice.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Take what happens today as a challenge rather than a setback. Everything that occurs in your life has a meaning behind it and a lesson to be learned. Fate is rarely unkind.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

If you make a mistake today just admit it and move on. Life is a succession of tests and the powers that guide your life do not expect you to pass every one of them, at least not first time. You'll do better tomorrow.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

The approaching new moon falls in the most dynamic area of your chart, so don't hesitate to take advantage of what happens over the next few days. Remember to use your energy wisely. SALLY BROMPTON
